Do you mean while making an entry or on the Filter page? By default is there no active filtering of selections on the Filter page but there is in the add/edit entry page.

Filter page. I'm searching only in the FAST logbook, but see every category on site is available. Same for other filters. Filtering the filters, considering the list sizes, might just take to long.

I think this is doable, its a considerable amount of work create an active filter as selections are made so it may be a while before this feature is implemented.

A higher priority for me is to get my people to make logbook entries with subjects and categories that are consistent. You're more responsive.
