Description

Check if they can be combined in a way that makes interpretation and configuration easier

There are different elements that may be interested in the attributes
- glidein submission (condor_submit)
- Frontend or something listening to the Factory classads
- glidein (via the glidein_attr file)
- startd (machine ad)
- job execution environment

There should be rules with sensible defaults an possibility to modify them, about allowed names, who is listening, who can change the value, allowed types (including enumeration checks)
