Description
With LCLSII Cryomodule testing there are some tests that take multiple days. Would it be possible to have a user identified field that would extend the edit time for an entry. example would be the usable gradient tables for cavity testing. currently we will have to copy and paste the incomplete table from the previous day to the next day, when it would be great if we could just edit the table until the test is complete. Thanks kyle.
