Description

We overload the *_expr variables in the config -- sometimes they're python expressions and sometimes they're Condor classad expressions.

A proposed fix is to rename query_expr and start_expr to query_condor_expr and start_condor_expr (in v3, of course).

Personally, I don't see the need.
Once you know what you are doing, it is pretty obvious.

Making the names longer just makes for a harder to maintain XML file.

But this is just my opinion... not vetoing the idea or anything.
